Pinnacle West Presidential Chair for Teacher Education, Full Professor
Job #11427

At Arizona State University’s Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College we are dedicated to preparing the next generation of education leaders, focusing on scholarship that positively impacts local, national and global communities and influences PreK-20 education. Teachers College benefits from a legacy of excellence in scholarship and research—our education graduate programs have been ranked among the best by U.S. News & World Report for 12 consecutive years. We welcome individuals who wish to build the future of education within one of the largest and most innovative research and teacher preparation programs in the nation. We serve more than 5,000 students across four ASU campuses in the Phoenix metropolitan area, at partner school districts statewide, and online. Teachers College is committed to an interdisciplinary approach to education and welcomes candidates from diverse theoretical backgrounds. The college is a recognized leader in cultivating mutually beneficial partnerships and using technology to prepare excellent teachers and school leaders who apply evidence-based knowledge that positively impacts students, families and the community.

The Division seeks an individual with a strong research program that focuses on studying and improving teacher education at all levels from initial certification to in-service professional development as well as through graduate education. The college has a strong emphasis on improving the preparation of teachers through field-based programs, post baccalaureate programs, professional development and outreach activities, and close collaboration with school districts.

The successful candidate will: 1) develop a graduate focus in Teacher Education; 2) improve existing teacher education programs; 3) lead cutting edge research in teacher education; 4) provide leadership in teacher education across the state; 5) teach appropriate courses within teacher education; 6) develop grant proposals for external funding.

Required Qualifications:
- Earned doctorate degree from an accredited university in Education or a related field
- Record of scholarly productivity appropriate for the rank of full professor at Arizona State University
- Evidence of reform-minded approaches to teacher education
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness in key areas of education such as technology
- Demonstrated national reputation in education research and development applied to teacher education
- Demonstrated success in the procurement and administration of external research funds
- Demonstrated leadership on the national or international scene
- Candidates for the rank of Full Professor must also be eligible for tenure at Arizona State University

Desired Qualifications:
- Experience working with students in formal and informal educational settings
- Experience teaching in a PreK-12 setting
- Experience working with school districts
- Experience teaching and mentoring graduate students in education-related disciplines
- Experience building relationships and research synergies within and between disciplines
• Demonstrated ability to teach effectively online

About the College and the University
Teachers College offers rigorous undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The college is dedicated to supporting faculty members so they can provide excellent instruction to students while pursuing bold scholarship that is changing the face of education. Teachers College’s award-winning faculty members are recognized for their master teaching by the university as well as community, national, and international organizations.

Arizona State University, a respected research institution in the Pac-12 Conference, is developing a new model of an American research university: one that measures its academic quality by the education its graduates receive; one at which researchers, while pursuing their scholarly interests, also consider the public good; and one whose faculty expands the concept of community service by accepting major responsibility for the health, economic and social development of its community.
