

Housing at ASU

Live like a Sun Devil

Living at ASU promotes creative connections and innovation both inside and outside of the classroom, while providing a supportive, close-knit environment designed to set you up for success.

Living on campus provides:

- a 24/7 community of support
- a place where safety and security are top priorities
- a residential experience that fosters personal development, meaningful engagement and life-long relationships
- convenience to academic buildings, student services and campus dining locations
- fully furnished rooms and community spaces
- all-inclusive living, including housing, utilities, cable and internet

Live with others who share your major and career interests

First-year students live in residential college communities which feature programs, events and amenities tailored to your major. As a student at Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College, you will live, learn and experience ASU with fellow future educators.

Tempe campus

San Pablo

West campus

Casa de Oro

View amenities, floor plans and rates for each community at housing.asu.edu.

Take the next steps

Once you are admitted to ASU and have submitted your enrollment deposit, visit housing.asu.edu to reserve your housing in three simple steps.

1. Start your application by completing the housing license agreement.
2. Use the housing portal to search for roommates.
3. Complete your room and meal plan selection.

Upper-division housing

Housing for upper-division students is limited, but available. Priority consideration is given to students who apply early.

Upper-division students can live on any campus location and can select from traditional and apartment-style residence halls.

Connect with on-campus housing today: housing.asu.edu | housing@asu.edu

Off-campus housing information

ASU has a variety of resources for students interested in off-campus housing. You can find information about available housing options off-campus, get connected with potential roommates, find and list subleases, and receive tips and resources for living off-campus.

Visit offcampushousing.asu.edu to browse the resources.

Connect with us

ASU Mary Lou Fulton
Teachers College
Arizona State University